2. Click on Enroll to start the course. If you don't have an account in edX, you can set up a free account to access the course (additional screenshots are below).

The screenshot shows the edX course page for "Unconscious Bias in Medicine". At the top, there is a navigation bar with "edX" logo, "Courses", "Programs & Degrees", and "Schools & Partners". A search bar contains "What do you want to learn?". On the right, there are links for "edX for Business", "Sign In", and "Register for free". A green arrow points to the "Register for free" button. Below the navigation bar, a blue banner reads "edX is part of 2U: the next era of online learning begins today! Visit our Help Center to read more about changes at edX". The main content area features the course title "Unconscious Bias in Medicine" and a description: "This CME activity provides education on unconscious bias in the academic medicine workplace." A "Save" button is visible. To the right is a course image with the title "Unconscious Bias in Medicine" and the Stanford Medicine logo. Below the image, three course details are listed: "Estimated 1 weeks" (1-2 hours per week), "Self-paced" (Progress at your own speed), and "Free" (Access to course at no cost). A section titled "There is one session available:" states "26,131 already enrolled! After a course session ends, it will be archived." Below this, a box indicates "Starts May 6" and a red "Enroll" button, with a green arrow pointing to it. At the bottom, there is a checkbox: "I would like to receive email from StanfordOnline and learn about other offerings related to Unconscious Bias in Medicine."

The screenshot shows the edX registration form. On the left, a dark green banner says "Start learning with edX". The form has "Register" and "Sign in" tabs. It includes fields for "Full name", "Email", "Public username" (with a note: "Username must be between 2 and 30 characters"), and "Password" (with a note: "Password criteria has not been met"). A "Country/Region" dropdown is set to "United States of America". A checkbox is checked: "I agree that edX may send me marketing messages." Below the form is a red "Create an account for free" button. At the bottom, it says "Or register with:" followed by buttons for "Apple", "Facebook", "Google", and "Microsoft". A green arrow points from the "Enroll" button in the previous screenshot to the "Create an account for free" button.

The screenshot shows the edX sign-in page. It has "Register" and "Sign in" tabs. The "Sign in" tab is active, showing fields for "Username or email" and "Password". Below the fields are "Sign in" and "Forgot password" buttons. A section titled "Or sign in with:" includes a "Company or school credentials" link and buttons for "Apple", "Facebook", "Google", and "Microsoft".

3. After signing in you can start the course:

The screenshot shows the edX course page for 'Unconscious Bias in Medicine'. The page has a navigation bar with 'Course', 'Progress', 'Dates', and 'Discussion'. Below the navigation bar, the course title 'Unconscious Bias in Medicine' is displayed. A red button labeled 'Start course' is highlighted with a green arrow. To the right of the 'Start course' button, there is a section titled 'Set a weekly learning goal' with options for 'Casual' (1 day a week), 'Regular' (3 days a week), and 'Intense' (5 days a week). Below the 'Start course' button, there is a list of course sections: 'Introduction', 'Unconscious Bias in Medicine', 'Course Wrap-up', 'Resources and References', and 'Help!'. Each section has a plus sign next to it. On the right side of the page, there are sections for 'Course Tools' (Bookmarks, Launch tour), 'Important dates' (Fri, May 6, 2022; Tue, May 17, 2022), and 'Course Handouts'.

4. If you need to pause you can sign out and return to the course by going to <https://www.edx.org/course/unconscious-bias-in-medicine> and use your username/password to sign back in to resume the course.

The screenshot shows the edX 'My Courses' page. The page has a navigation bar with 'Courses', 'Programs', and 'Discover New'. Below the navigation bar, there is a message: 'Add a recovery email to retain access when single-sign on is not available. Go to your Account Settings.' The main content area shows a card for the course 'Unconscious Bias in Medicine' by 'StanfordOnline - CME.20775', which started on 'Mar 11, 2022'. A red button labeled 'Resume Course' is highlighted with a green arrow. To the right of the course card, there is a section titled 'Browse recently launched courses and see what's new in your favorite subjects.' with a button labeled 'Explore New Courses'.
